(I) have neuroprotective activities and can be used in gene therapy and as a spastin polypeptide agonists. (I), their fragments or their complements can be useful for assaying the presence of a nucleic acid molecule in a sample. (I) is useful for diagnosing or aiding in the diagnosis of an early onset neurodegenerative disease in an individual. The neurodegenerative disease comprises reduced sensory nerve conduction, reduced motor nerve velocity, hypermyelination of retinal nerve fibres, atrophy of upper cerebellar vermis, absence of Purkinje cells and

(I) is useful for diagnosing or aiding in the diagnosis of an early onset neurodegenerative disease in an individual. The neurodegenerative disease comprises reduced sensory nerve conduction, reduced motor nerve velocity, hypermyelination of retinal nerve fibres, atrophy of upper cerebellar vermis, absence of Purkinje cells and abnormal neuronal lipid storage. (I) can also be used to produce antisense nucleic acids, is useful as molecular weight or chromosome markers, to identify genetic disorders, as hybridisation probes or primers, as an antigen, identify and express recombinant protein for analysis, characterisation or therapeutic use, or as markers for tissues in which the corresponding protein is expressed. Diagnostic methods from the present invention can be used to identify subjects having or at risk of the corresponding protein is expressed.

The spastin gene has been mapped to chromosome 13q11. (I) have neuroprotective activities and can be used in gene therapy and as a spastin polypeptide agonists. (I) their fragments or their complements can be useful for assaying the presence of a nucleic acid molecule in a sample. (I) is useful for diagnosing or alding in the diagnosis of an early onset neurodegenerative disease in an individual. The neurodegenerative disease reduced sensory nerve conduction, reduced motor nerve velocity, hypermyelination of retinal nerve fibres, atrophy of upper cerebellar vermis, absence of Purkinje cells and cannormal neuronal lipid storage. (I) can also be used to produce annisense nucleic acids, is useful as molecular weight or chromosome markers, to identify genetic disorders, as hybridisation probes or primers, as an antigen, identify and express recombinant protein for analysis, characterisation or therapeutic use, or as markers for tissues in which the corresponding protein is expressed. Diagnostic methods from the present invention can be used to identify subjects having or at risk of developing a disorder associated with aberrant expression or activity of (I). The assays can be utilised to identify a subject having or at risk of developing a disorder associated with Spastin corresponds or protein or spastin gene expression or activity. The present sequence is not given in the present specification but is derived in name spastin nucleotide sequence (AAH20174) as

                                          CC chromosome 13q11. (1) have neuroprotective activities and can be used in CC gane therapy and as a spastin polypeptide agonists. (1), their fragments CC or their complements can be useful for assaying the presence of a nucleic CC acid molecule in a sample. (1) is useful for diagnosing or aiding in the diagnosis of an early onset neurodegenerative disease in an individual. CC The neurodegenerative disease comprises reduced sensory nerve conduction, CC reduced motor nerve velocity, hypermyelination of retinal nerve fibres, CC atrophy of upper cerebellar vermis, absence of Purkinje cells and CC abnormal neuronal lipid storage. (1) can also be used to produce CC antisense nucleic acids, is useful as molecular weight or chromosome CC markers, to identify genetic disorders, as hybridisation probes or CC primers, as an antigen, identify and express recombinant protein for canalysis, characterisation or therapeutic use, or as markers for tissues in which the corresponding protein is expressed. Diagnostic methods from CC the present invention can be used to identify subjects having or at risk of facularions a disease or diseased to identify subjects having or at risk

(1) can also be used to produce contisense nucleic acids, is useful as molecular weight or chromosome markers, to identify genetic disorders, as hybridisation probes or comarkers, as an antigen, identify and express recombinant protein for analysis, characterisation or therapeutic use, or as markers for tissues in which the corresponding protein is expressed. Diagnostic methods from the present invention can be used to identify subjects having or at risk of developing a disease or disorder associated with aberrant expression or activity of (I). The assays can be utilised to identify a subject having or at risk of developing a disorder associated with Spastin correction or spastin gene expression or activity. The present sequence is not given in the present specification but is derived from the human spastin nucleotide sequence (AAH20174) as

(I) their fragments or their complements can be useful for assaying the presence of a nucleic acid molecule in a sample. (I) is useful for diagnosing or adding in the diagnosis of an early onset neurodegenerative disease in an individual. The neurodegenerative disease comprises reduced sensory nerve velocity, hypermyelination of retinal nerve fibres, atrophy of upper cerebellar vermis, absence of Purkinje cells and

(I) have neuroprotective activities and can be used in C gene therapy and as a spastin polypeptide agonists. (I), their fragments CC or their complements can be useful for assaying the presence of a nucleic card molecule in a sample. (I) is useful for diagnosing or adding in the C diagnosis of an early onset neurodegenerative disease in an individual. CC reduced motor nerve velocity, hypermyelination of retinal nerve fibres, CC atrophy of upper cerebellar vermis, absence of purkinje cells and CC abnormal neuronal lipid storage. (I) can also be used to produce CC antisense nucleic acids, is useful as molecular weight or chromosome CC markers, to identify genetic disorders, as hybridisation probes or CC primers, as an antigen, identify and express recombinant protein for CC analysis, characterisation or therapeutic use, or as markers for tissues in which the corresponding protein is expressed. Diagnostic methods from CC in which the corresponding protein is expressed. The assays can be utilised to identify a subject having or at risk of developing a disorder associated with Spastin protein or spastin gene expression or activity. The present sequence encodes mouse spastin as given in the present invention.

The spastin gene has been mapped to chromosome 13q11. (1) have neuroprotective activities and can be used.

The enzyme polypeptides of the invention may comprise the functional classes of oxidoreductases, transferases, hydrolases, lyases, ci isomerases or ligases. The sequences of the invention are useful in the diagnosis, treatment, prevention and/or prognosis of a wide range of celargnosis, treatment, prevention and/or prognosis of a wide range of continuous control of the invention and/or prognosis of a wide range of celargnosis, including hyperproliferative disorders (e.g. cancer), continuous control of the control of the invention can also be used in gene therapy.

Control of the invention can also be used in gene therapy. Chasties of the invention can also be used in gene therapy. Chasties of the invention can also be used in gene therapy. The present invention relates to polynucleotide sequences from the genome of the pathogenic Escherichia coli strain CFT073. Almost all the sequences present in E. coli CFT073 are absent in the previously sequenced laboratory strain K-12. The polynucleotide sequences of the invention are useful for preventing, diagnosing or treating E. coli CFT073 infection in humans or livestock. The polynucleotide sequences are useful for preventing urinary tract infections and pyelonephritis. Likewise, the polypeptides encoded by the different open reading frames (ORF1-5) are useful for generating a vaccine against uropathogenic E. coli strains. ABS78834-ABS79085 represent

The phosphatase proteins are related to the protein tyrosine phosphatase subfamily. The peptides of the invention are useful for identifying a modulator of phosphatase peptide expression. Modulators of phosphatase peptide are useful for treating diseases or conditions mediated by a human phosphatase protein. The phosphatase gene of the present invention can be expressed in yeast to identify possible interactors and substrates. Artificially synthesised enzymes or derived peptides can be used to activate or inhibit cellular processes modulated by this phosphatase. The present sequence is a human gene encoding phosphatase protein. This gene is located on human chromosome 14.

The method is used for determining the PrP allele in an animal (or human) in order to assess susceptibility to transmissible spongiform encephalopathies (TSE), most especially scrapic in sheep. This assists in the selection, for breeding, of animals having the alleles known to be associated with lowest risk. The method is reproducible and rapid, provides high resolution between allelic variants and is suitable for processing large numbers of samples. The current sequence represents a sheep PrP gene, that is used in the context of the invention as a

The transgene of the invention has neuroprotective activity. The method is useful for producing a transgenic bovine or cervid resistant to BSE and TSE diseases. The bovine prion gene is useful for producing transgenic cattle exhibiting resistance to bovine spongiform encephalopathy. The sequence represents the transgene encoding the mutant PrP polypeptide in

(I) is useful for:

(a) assessing whether a patient is afflicted with prostate cancer;
(b) monitoring the progression of prostate cancer in a patient;
(c) assessing the efficacy of a test compound to inhibit prostate cancer in a patient;
(d) assessing the efficacy of a therapy for inhibiting prostate cancer in a patient;

The invention useful in developmental biology and in elucidating cell signalling and cell-cell interactions in higher eukaryotes for the development of insecticides, therapeutics and pharmaceutical drugs. The invention discloses genomic DNA sequences (ABL10176-ABL30511), expressed DNA sequences (ABL01840-ABL6175) and the encoded proteins

By providing the full-length genomic sequence in a computer readable form, it is possible to identify commercially important nucleic acid fragments and expression modulating fragments (EMFs) of the Haemophilus genome. The EMFs can be used to regulate the expression of a nucleic acid molecule. Vectors and altered organisms comprising the predicted ORFS can be used to produce any of the polypeptide fragments of the H. influenzae Rd genome.

The inventiuseful in developmental biology and in elucidating cell signalling a cell-cell interactions in higher eukaryotes for the development of insecticides, therapeutics and pharmaceutical drugs. The invention discloses genomic DNA sequences (ABL16176-ABL30511), expressed DNA controls.

The method is useful for the production of cold-adapted influenza virus that exhibit temperature sensitivity and can be actively grown in fertilized eggs. The virus is useful for vaccines for protection against 'flu. Live vaccines containing cold-adapted viruses have several advantages over killed vaccines. It can prevent reduction of immunogenicity, which may occur in the killed vaccine where antigenic proteins would be denatured at its inactivation. It can also avoid hypersensitivity due to the prolonged administration of heterologous proteins. It promotes the immunity by inducing IgA and it can be administered into a spray formulation via nasal cavity and thus its application is convenient for children. It is able to inhibit the growted when except the immunity by the cavity the inhibit the growth of the wild-type virus and thus its therapeutic effect can be

Underlying the invention is the discovery that such derangements have their genesis in deletions occurring centromeric to STS 3.21, most often including breakpoints in exon 8 and/or between exons 4 and 5 of the gene which encodes MTAP. As the cancer and tumour development advance, deletions in 9p21 progress centromerically from the genesis point toward the gene encoding p16. Thus, the method of the invention is performed

The primers sets can be used in antisense therapy and in gene therapy. The primers enc useful for synthesising polynucleotides, particularly full-length cDNAs. The primers are also useful for the detection and/or diagnosis of the abnormality of the proteins encoded by the full-length cDNAs. The primers allow obtaining of the full-length cDNAs easily without any specialised methods. AAH03166 to AAH18742 represent human cDNA sequences; AAB92446 to AAB95893 represent human amino acid sequences; and AAH13629 to AAH13632 represent invention.

Where a primer set comprises: (a) an oligonord primer and an oligonucleotide complementary to the complementary strand of a polynucleotide which comprises one of the 5602 nucleotide sequences defined in the specification, where the oligonucleotide comprises at least 15 nucleotides; or (b) a combination of an oligonucleotide comprising a sequence complementary to the complementary strand of a polynucleotide which comprises a 5' end sequence complementary to the complementary strand of a polynucleotide which comprises a 5' end

CC full-length cDNAs defined in the specification. Where a primer set CC comprises: (a) an oligo-dT primer and an oligonucleotide complementary strand of a polynucleotide which comprises one of CC the 5602 nucleotide sequences defined in the specification, where the CC oligonucleotide comprises at least 15 nucleotides; or (b) a combination CC of an oligonucleotide comprises a polynucleotide which comprises 5'-end CC complementary strand of a polynucleotide which comprises 5'-end cC complementary strand of a polynucleotide which comprises a 5'-end sequence and an oligonucleotide comprising a sequence complementary to a CC polynucleotide which comprises a 3'-end sequence, where the CC oligonucleotide which comprises a 3'-end sequence, where the CC oligonucleotide comprises a 1-least 15 nucleotides and the combination of the 5'-end sequence/3'-end sequence is selected from those defined in CC the specification. The primers sets can be used in antisense therapy and CC in gene therapy. The primers are useful for synthesising polynucleotides, particularly full-length cDNAs. The primers are also useful for the detection and/or diagnosis of the abnormality of the proteins encoded by the full-length cDNAs. The primers allow obtaining of the full-length CDNAs easily without any specialised methods. AAH03166 to AAH13628 and CC AAB95893 represent human amino acid sequences; and AAH13629 to AAH13620 represent oligonucleotides, all of which are used in the exemplification of the present invention.

(I) can be used to identify functional interactors, to identify and isolate human variants from Genbank or to treat or diagnose cancer, autoimmune disease, in particular multiple sclerosis or rheumantoid arthritis, Alzheimer's disease, allergies, especially neurodermitis, Type I or IV allergies, arthrosis, atherosclerosis, osteoporosis, acute and chronic infections and/or diabetes and/or influencing cell metabolism, in particular immunosuppression for transplantation. This sequence encodes a human DAN protein which is described in the method of the invention.

The invention also relates to polynucleotide sequences at least 90% identical to the dithp cDNA compounds of the invention; recombinant vectors, host cells and compounds which specifically bind a DITHP proteins; microarrays comprising a dithp nucleic acid sequences; methods comproteins; microarrays comprising dithp nucleic acid sequences; methods of screening compounds which specifically bind a DITHP protein; and methods of screening compounds which specifically bind a DITHP protein and other cell grobe. Dithp nucleic acid sequences and DITHP protein may be used in the compounds which specifically bind a DITHP protein may be used in the compounds which specifically bind a DITHP protein may be used in the compounds using a dithp hybridisation comprobe. Dithp nucleic acid sequences and DITHP proteins may be used in the compounds using a dithp hybridisation comprobe. The polynucleotides and polypeptides are useful in gene therapy, vaccines or peptide therapy. The polypeptides have various cytokine-like activities, e.g. stem cell growth factor activity, haematopoiesis regulating encoded polypeptides (AAM78333-AAM80302) that exhibit activity elating to cytokine, cell proliferation or cell differentiation or which may induce production of other cytokines in other cell populations. The polynucleotides and polypeptides are useful in gene therapy, vaccines or peptide therapy. The polypeptides have various cytokine-like activities, e.g. stem cell growth factor activity, haematopoiesis regulating activity, tissue growth factor activity, immunomodulatory activity and activin/inhibin activity and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring activity in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring activity and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring activity and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring activity and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or treatment of carear levieuring activity.

The PRO sequences of the invention were identified based on extracellular domain homology screening. The PRO sequences have homology with proteins including LDL receptors, TIE ligands and various enzymes. The membrane-bound proteins and receptor impuncations are useful as pharmaceutical and diagnostic agents. Receptor immunoadhesins, for instance, can be used as therapeutic agents to block receptor-ligand interactions. The membrane-bound proteins can also be employed for screening of potential peptide or small molecule inhibitors of the relevant receptor/ligand interaction. The PRO encoding sequences

PRO polynucleotides used to produce polypeptides used to target bioactive molecules such as toxins, radiolabels or antibodies, to specific cells, to cause targeted cell death -

Example 25; Fig 60; 935pp; English.

The present invention describes human secreted and transmembrane PRO proteins. The PRO proteins have cytostatic activity. The PRO proteins can be used for targeted delivery of bloactive molecules, such as toxins, radiolabels or antibodies, that cause cell death. PRO nucleotide sequences, and their fragments, can be used as hybridisation probes, in chromosomal and gene mapping, and in the generation of anti-sense RNA and DNA. They may also be used to produce transgenic animals which are used to develop and screen therapeutically useful reagents. The PRO nucleotide and protein sequence can be used for tissue typing and in treating cancer. Anti-PRO antibodies can be used in diagnostic assays. ARF44270 to ARF44470 represent PCR primers and hybridisation probes used in the isolation of human PRO sequences. AAF44087 to AARF44269 and AARF41264 to AARF4300 represent human PRO polynucleotide and protein sequences given in the exemplification of the present invention.

PRO1312 stimulates hypertrophy of neonatal heart and is thus CC useful for treating cardiac insufficiency disorders. PRO136, and FRO1387 induce c-fos in endothelial growth, and PRO536, CC PRO1343, PRO828, PRO826, PRO1068 or PRO535, PRO826, PRO8193, PRO8126, PRO1068 or PRO535, PRO826, PRO8193, PRO8126, CC PRO1360 and PRO1387 induce c-fos in endothelial cells, and are thus CC useful for treating conditions or disorders where angiogenesis would be beneficial, e.g. wound healing and antagonist of this polypeptide are CC useful for treating concerous tumours. PRO812 inhibits vascular CC enlothelial growth factor (VEGF) stimulated proliferation of endothelial cells and is thus useful for inhibiting tumour growth. PRO826, PRO1068, PRO1184, PRO1346 and PRO1375 stimulated proliferation of CC stimulated T-lymphocytes and are therapeutically useful for enhancing CC immune response. PRO828, PRO826, PRO1088 or PRO1132 useful for treating conditions of classification of injuries, e.g. retinitis pigmentosum, AMD. PRO813 PRO813 CC and therefore are useful for treating retinal CC disorders of injuries, e.g. retinitis pigmentosum, AMD. PRO813 PRO813 CC and therefore are useful for treating kidney disorders associated with dermatitis, herpetiformis or crohn's CC clissase. PRO8130, PRO844, PRO1312, PRO1132 and PRO1387 induce the CC proliferation and/or redifferentiation of chondrocvers in culture and

The invention discloses isolated PRO secreted/transmembrane polypeptides comprising a sequence without signal peptide and the nucleic acid encoding them. The polypeptides can be used to raise antibodies that specifically bind to the PRO polypeptide, for linking a bloactive combination of the properties and for modulating at least one biological activity of a cell. The PRO polypeptides or polypeptides or polypeptides are also useful in gene therapy, in chromosome dentification, as chromosome markers, or in generating probes. The PRO polypeptides are useful as molecular markers for protein completides are useful as molecular markers for protein celectrophoresis, and the isolated nucleic acids may be used for electrophoresis, and the isolated nucleic acids may also be used in tissue typing. Anti-PRO antibodies are useful in diagnostic assays for PRO, and in affinity purification of PRO from recombinant cell culture or natural sources. The sequences presented in ARS90083-ABX90468 are the genes encoding, the primers amplifying and the probes detecting the PRO palypucleotides of the invention.

New secreted and transmembrane PRO polypeptides (e.g. PRO183, PRO184, PRO361 or PRO846) useful as targets for therapeutic intervention in cancers (e.g. lung or breast cancers), or for diagnosing these cancers

Example 25; Fig 60; 647pp; English.

The invention discloses isolated PRO secreted/transmembrane polypeptides comprising a sequence without signal peptide and the nucleic acid encoding them. The polypeptides can be used to raise antibodies that specifically bind to the PRO polypeptide, for linking a bioactive molecule to a cell expressing a PRO protein and for modulating at least one biological activity of a cell. The PRO polypeptides or polynucleotides are also useful as pharmaceuticals, diagnostics, biosensors or bioreactors, for detecting or treating e.g. tumours in mammals, e.g. humans, dogs, cats, cattle, horses, sheep, pigs, goats or rabbits as targets for therapeutic intervention in certain cancers (e.g. colon, lung or breast cancers) and diagnostic determination of the presence of these cancers. The PRO polypeptides are also useful as molecular weight markers or for chromosome identification. The PRO genes cance may also be used in gene therapy, particularly for replacing a defective gene. The sequences presented in ABX79290-ABX79675 are the genes encoding, the primers amplifying and the probes detecting the PRO polypucleotides of the invention.

Note: The sequence data for this patent is also available in electronic format from USPTO at seqdata.uspto.gov/sequence.html.

The present invention relates to the isolation of novel human PRO polypeptides, and the polynucleotide sequences encoding them. The PRO polypeptides are secreted and transmembrane proteins. The PRO polypeptides are useful for detecting other PRO polypeptides, for linking bioactive molecules to cells expressing PRO polypeptides, for modulating biological activities of cells expressing PRO

The polynucleotide sequences encoding PRO polypeptides are useful as hybridisation probes, in chromosome and gene mapping, in the generation of antisense RNA and DNA, in the preparation of PRO polypeptides, for generating transgenic animals or knockout animals, to construct hybridisation probes for mapping the gene which encodes the PRO polypeptide, and for the genetic analysis of individuals with genetic disorders, in gene therapy, for chromosome identification, as chromosome markers, and for generating probes for PCR, Northern analysis, Southern analysis and Western analysis. The present sequence represents a human PRO CDNA clone.

20 contiguous nucleotides of one of those sequences. Also included are detecting differential expression of embryonic genes, comprising:
(a) contacting a nucleic acid array comprising genes expressed in embryonic but not mature cells with nucleic acids from sample and control cells; and (b) detecting differential hybridisation of nucleic acids from the sample cells relative to the control cells; and detecting defects in development, comprising: (a) contacting nucleic acids from the sample cells relative to the control cells; and detecting defects in development, comprising: (a) contacting nucleic acids from test cells undergoing development with a nucleic acid array of gene products known to play a fundamental role in the development process; and (b) detecting a difference in expression of a fundamental gene in the sample cells relative to a standard.                                                 genes involved in embryonic development and related processes such as cell differentiation. This would be useful for diagnosing developmental disorders and for identifying different types of embryonic cells. The present sequence is one of the 770 Xenopus embryonic cDNA sequences.

The invention relates to a nucleic acid array, where each coordinate contains a single nucleic acid species having one of 770 nucleotide Sequences (appearing as ABS77516) a of a Xenopus embryonic gene CC product, or its complement or hybridisable fragment of not less than C20 contiguous nucleotides of one of those sequences. Also included are CC detecting differential expression of embryonic genes, comprising: CC (a) contacting a nucleic acid array comprising genes expressed in CC embryonic but not mature cells with nucleic acids from sample and CC control cells; and (b) detecting differential hybridisation of nucleic acids from the sample cells relative to the control cells; and detecting defects in development, comprising: (a) contacting nucleic acids from CC defects in development, comprising: (a) contacting nucleic acids from CC test cells undergoing development with a nucleic acid array of gene products known to play a fundamental role in the development process; and CC sample cells relative to a standard. The invention is useful to identify genes involved in embryonic development and related processes such as cell differentiation. This would be useful for diagnosing developmental CC disorders and for identifying different types of embryonic cells.

(I) have cytostatic activity, and can be used in gene therapy and vaccine production. (I) proteins and polynucleotides may be used in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of diseases associated with inappropriate (I) expression. For example, they may be used to treat disorders associated with decreased expression by rectifying mutations or deletions in a patient's genome that affect the activity of (I) by expressing inactive proteins or to supplement the patients own production of (I). Additionally, (I) polynucleotides may be used to produce the secreted (I), by inserting the nucleic acids into a host cell and culturing the cell to express the protein. (I) proteins and polynucleotides may be used to prevent, diagnose and treat immune/haematopoietic-related diseases, especially

The genes can be used to generate fusion proteins by linking to the gene for the human immunoglobulin G Fc portion (SEQIDI) for increasing the stability of the fusion protein as compared to the human protein only. The genes and proteins are useful for preventing, ameliorating or treating medical conditions, e.g. by protein or gene therapy. The genes are isolated from a range of human tissues disclosed in the specification. The

                    The invention relates to human polynucleotides (AAI79941-AAI93841) and the encoded proteins (AA000010-AA0I3910) that exhibit activity elating to cytokine, cell proliferation or cell differentiation or which may induce production of other cytokines in other cell populations. The polynucleotides and polypeptides are useful in gene therapy, vaccines or peptide therapy. The polypeptides have various cytokine-like activities, e.g. stem cell growth factor activity, haematopolesis regulating activity, tissue growth factor activity, immunomodulatory activity and activity inhibin activity and may be useful in the diagnosis and/or restricts.

The produce under the protested in CHO cells to produce a chimaeric prod. from which the pro-region as cleaved by endogenous PACE, providing mature EK catalytic domain.
